Heritage Vertical Slider

A Traditional Design With Modern Benefits

Cutting Edge Profile Design

The three chamber sash profiles are designed with two front chambers to achieve excellent heat insulation characteristics and allow isolated drainage. The third chamber allows the fitting of efficiently designed reinforcement sections.

Seals

Each window frame contains six weather seal locator grooves, which allows for the insertion of seals between sash and frame - this creates an excellent barrier against both water and air ingress. In order to protect the brush seals against dirt and driving rain from the outside, the sub-frame is stepped twice. Furthermore, by concealing the edges of the sashes an outstanding insulation factor is achieved.

Sash Options

3 sash profiles replicate a traditional putty line chamfer externally and a sculptured joinery detail on the glazing bead internally. Traditional timber aesthetics can be replicated by combining sight lines of 42mm, 52mm, 62mm with the 75mm deep bottom rail. The 10mm incrementally stepped sash profiles allow for equal glazing sight lines to run from top to bottom sash which creates an aesthetically pleasing finished product.

Material

The Rehau profiles we utilise are extruded from Rehau's unique combination of window grade PVCu called RAU PVC 1406 - which has been developed and used for over 30 years throughout Europe.
